

Funding Alignment: English Learner Education

Title III, A (English Learner Education) helps ensure that children who are limited English proficient develop high levels of academic achievement in English and meet challenging state standards.

Rowland Reading Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to improving reading instruction in the primary grades. The Foundation publishes the Superkids® Reading Program, a core reading program designed just for kindergarten through second grade that teaches all aspects of reading seamlessly integrated with the language arts. Happily Ever After is the Foundation's literature-based reading readiness program. The table below shows the English Learner Education program requirements and alignment with Rowland Reading Foundation programs.

"Grants... shall be used for identifying, acquiring, and applying effective curricula, instruction materials ...and assessments that are all aligned with State and local standards...."	The Superkids Reading Program and Happily Ever After help students meet rigorous requirements and align to Common Core State Standards and state-specific standards, and the International Reading Association (IRA), the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), and the Head Start recommendations for teaching students to read. The instructional focus of each level is described below. Correlation charts for each state or national requirement show the alignment of each program to these standards. The Superkids Reading Program (Kindergarten–Grade 2)                      The Superkids Reading Program is designed just for kindergarten through second grade and teaches all aspects of reading, seamlessly integrated with the language arts. Built on scientific research and proven pedagogy, it combines rigorous instruction with highly motivating materials. The Superkids Reading Program provides explicit and systematic instruction in reading, spelling, handwriting, expressive writing, and simple grammar and mechanics. The six levels are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Level 1: Meet the Superkids (usually taught first semester of kindergarten) This level begins children’s formal phonics instruction by teaching 13 letters of the alphabet—five short vowels and eight consonants. Students learn one sound for each of the letters and how to blend the letter-sounds to read words and eventually sentences. They also learn how to write the capital and lowercase form of each letter and to encode (spell) words with the letters and sounds they’ve been taught. Comprehension instruction begins with read-aloud stories and then continues, starting in the middle of the level, with short decodable stories that children read themselves. Lessons for each story build background and vocabulary before reading and help guide children’s comprehension as they read. Expressive writing is taught through shared writing activities and independent writing in which children dictate what they want to write or use temporary spelling. By the end of this level, students understand how written language relates to spoken language.</li> </ul>

Continued from earlier page	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Level 2: Superkids’ Club (usually taught second semester of kindergarten) This level continues children’s phonics instruction by teaching the remaining 13 letters of the alphabet, one sound for each, and how to write the capital and lowercase forms. With each new letter they learn, children are able to decode and encode (spell) more and more words. They read longer decodable stories as the level progresses, and lessons continue to develop their comprehension and vocabulary through reading. Expressive writing is taught the same way as in the previous level, but as children increase their knowledge of letters and sounds, they are able to write more words themselves.</li> <li>• Level 3: Adventures of the Superkids (usually taught first semester of first grade) This level steps up students’ phonics instruction by teaching more complex letter-sound relationships, such as digraphs and long-vowel sounds. Instead of focusing just on individual letter-sounds, children learn to use word families and whole-word patterns to decode and encode. They also learn how to read and spell six new Memory Words—high-frequency or sight words—in every unit. The decodable stories are longer and more complex than those in kindergarten. Lessons for each story help guide children’s understanding and explicitly teach comprehension skills and strategies. Lessons also teach and have children practice fluency skills, such as reading with expression and natural phrasing. Explicit and systematic instruction in expressive writing teaches children how to write a wide variety of products and introduces them to the writing process.</li> <li>• Level 4: More Adventures of the Superkids (usually taught in second semester of first grade) This level teaches more difficult phonetic elements, including r-controlled vowels and vowel combinations, such as au, oi, oy, and oo. Children learn strategies for decoding and encoding (spelling) words with variant vowel sounds. They also continue to learn to read and spell new Memory Words (sight words). By the end of this level, students are able to read and spell all 220 sight words on the Dolch Basic Word List. Comprehension and fluency skills are explicitly taught, and children practice applying the skills to progressively longer and more challenging decodable stories. Instruction in expressive writing teaches children how to write additional products and use the writing process to plan, draft, revise, and publish.</li> <li>• Level 5: The Superkids Hit Second Grade (usually taught in first semester of second grade) This level reviews, at a much faster pace, all the phonics and spelling skills taught in the first-grade levels of the program. The goal is for children to master these essential skills so that they are confident, automatic decoders and spellers. At the same time, this level greatly expands students’ world of reading. Children are taught how to apply comprehension skills to a wide variety of authentic fiction—including folktales, historical fiction, and realistic chapter books—and to nonfiction science and social studies articles in SUPER Magazine. Children’s vocabulary and fluency are also developed through instruction with these materials and a Decodable Reader. Expressive writing skills are taught in greater depth than in the previous levels and children use the writing process to</li> </ul>

Continued from earlier page	publish one final piece in every unit. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Level 6: The Superkids Take Off (usually taught in second semester of second grade) Phonics and spelling instruction in this level introduces children to some of the complexities of the English language. Children learn less common sound-spellings to add to their knowledge of sound-spelling patterns. New challenge having to remember which pattern applies to which words. Explicit instruction in comprehension, vocabulary, and fluency continues, but at a higher level as children read longer, more complex chapter books and nonfiction articles in SUPER Magazine. Similarly, children are challenged to produce longer, more complicated expressive writing products, including a research report and their own magazine. They are also expected to use the writing process with greater independence with each unit. By the end of this final level of the Superkids Reading Program, students should be confident, independent readers and writers, ready for intermediate-grade work.</li> </ul> Happily Ever After (Pre-kindergarten)                      Happily Ever After is a reading readiness program designed to give children the foundation they need to be successful when they begin formal reading instruction. Well-known, beautifully illustrated selections of children’s literature are the basis of the 10 units in the program. The program teaches a rich curriculum of early literacy skills, including story structure and appreciation, print and book awareness, letter recognition and naming, auditory discrimination, phonological and phonemic awareness, listening and direction following, fine motor skills, color and shape recognition, instructional concepts and vocabulary, oral language development, and emergent writing through children’s dictation. Happily Ever After can be used as a stand-alone program for pre-K students and kindergartners who aren’t ready for the Superkids Reading Program.

The programs support best instructional practices by integrating systematic reading instruction with other language arts instruction in spelling, handwriting, expressive writing, grammar, and mechanics. Finally, the latest brain research concludes that intensive phonics instruction (such as the instruction in the Superkids Reading Program) strengthens neural pathways and automaticity in the brain, which leads to permanent improvements in the reading abilities of struggling learners. Phonemic Awareness, Phonics, Fluency, Vocabulary, and Reading Comprehension Instruction <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Phonemic awareness prepares children to read. In Happily Ever After and the kindergarten levels of the Superkids Reading Program, children learn to notice, think about, and manipulate sounds (phonemes) in spoken language. In kindergarten, children are also taught to associate one sound with each letter of the alphabet. Phonemic awareness skills are reinforced throughout the first- and second-grade levels of the program as children are taught the remaining phonemes heard in the English language, including the sounds for consonant digraphs, long vowels, r-controlled vowels, and other variant vowels. In addition to phonemic awareness, the two programs help develop children’s phonological awareness through activities that work with onsets and rimes, rhyming words, and syllables. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Phonics instruction gives children a reliable way to unlock the written word. Phonics is taught explicitly and systematically in all levels of the Superkids Reading Program. Letter-sound associations are introduced in a clearly defined sequence and at a pace that’s manageable for students. In kindergarten, children are taught short-vowel sounds and one sound for each consonant. In first grade, they learn consonant digraphs, long-vowel patterns, r-controlled vowels, and other vowel variants. Second grade reviews all the major sound-spelling relationships that have been taught and teaches a few additional sound-spellings. The program gives children substantial practice in applying their knowledge of sound-spelling relationships to reading words, sentences, and stories. On a daily basis, children practice decoding and encoding (spelling) words with newly taught letter-sounds. For reading practice, all levels provide decodable stories in which the majority of words contain only sound-symbols that have been explicitly taught. Reading phonetically controlled vocabulary encourages children to decode unknown words rather than guessing at them, and builds their confidence and motivation to independently tackle more challenging material.</li> <li>• Fluency frees children to focus on comprehension. The Superkids Reading Program develops children’s automaticity in word recognition and their fluency with connected text. Through daily practice, children learn to blend letter-sounds effortlessly and decode words quickly. They are also taught to quickly recognize by sight a selection of Memory Words, high-frequency words that they cannot decode. Fluency skills with connected text are explicitly taught, modeled, and practiced in each level of the program. Skills include reading with expression, with natural phrasing, with appropriate stress, and at an appropriate rate, as well as observing punctuation. After a skill is modeled, children practice applying it as they read aloud a section of text repeatedly with their teacher, with a partner, or by themselves. Students practice fluency skills with decodable text in kindergarten through second grade. In second grade, children also practice fluency skills with a wide variety of fiction and nonfiction genres. Teacher read-alouds and recorded readings on CD provide additional models of fluent reading. Children, particularly struggling readers, are able to build their fluency by reading aloud with the recorded readings on CD.</li> <li>• Vocabulary development is essential for helping children make sense of text. Happily Ever After and the Superkids Reading Program teach vocabulary indirectly through everyday experiences</li> </ul>

In both programs, but especially in Happily Ever After and the first level of Superkids, children develop vocabulary as they listen to and discuss stories read aloud. Lively songs and richly illustrated scenes in the Superkids student materials are also used to prompt conversations based on the Superkids characters and their interests. These conversations create a common background that helps ensure all students, including those with limited language, will be able to understand vocabulary in the reading materials. In addition, before children listen to or read a text in the programs, they are taught specific words that are important to understanding the text. Other words and idioms from the text are discussed in context during reading and then expanded to other contexts after reading. Happily Ever After also teaches important function words and abstract concepts, such as the names of colors and shapes, words for sizes, position words, sequence words, and verbs used in directions, such as cut, trace, fold, color in, draw, and circle. Superkids teaches about relationships between words with activities on categorizing, synonyms, antonyms, and multiple-meaning words. Word-learning strategies using context clues, word parts, and dictionary skills are also taught. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Comprehension instruction helps children understand, retain, and connect with what they read. In Happily Ever After and the first level of the Superkids Reading Program, children’s comprehension is primarily developed with stories read aloud to them. Then starting in Level 2, comprehension instruction focuses on text children read. Lessons teach vocabulary and build background before children read. Discussion questions in the lessons help teachers guide children’s understanding as they read and help them make connections and form opinions after reading. Each question gives practice with a particular comprehension skill, such as determining important ideas, understanding characters, drawing conclusions, or recognizing cause and effect. Starting in first grade, children are also explicitly taught how to apply a specific comprehension skill, often using a graphic organizer, to each story they read. In second grade, children are taught how to apply comprehension skills to a wide variety of fiction and nonfiction genres. Lessons in all the levels include think-alouds to help teachers model comprehension strategies, including asking questions, self-monitoring and using fix-up tips, recognizing text structure, and summarizing.</li> </ul> Language Arts Skills The Superkids Reading Program includes instruction in these language arts: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Handwriting – In the kindergarten levels of the Superkids Reading Program, children are taught how to write the capital and lowercase form of each letter as they learn the letter’s name and a sound associated with it. They are also taught the proper letter spacing for words and between words and sentences. In all levels of the Superkids Reading Program, children practice writing</li> </ul>

The program also includes an optional cursive writing component for the second half of second grade. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Spelling – The spelling strand is taught explicitly as part of core instruction in all levels of the Superkids Reading Program. As children are taught how to decode, they also taught how to encode words by writing the letters that stand for the sounds they hear. In addition, children are taught to memorize the spelling of a few high-frequency irregular words in kindergarten and many more in first and second grade. (By the end of first grade, children should know how to encode, or spell, by memory all 220 words on the Dolch list of high-frequency sight words.) The Daily Dictation Routine in all levels gives children practice encoding phonetically regular words and spelling irregular Memory Words every day. Activities in Student Books (K-1) and Word Work Books (grade 2) also reinforce spelling skills. In first and second grade, children have regular spelling tests that include both encodable words and irregular Memory Words.</li> <li>• Simple Grammar and Mechanics – Superkids teaches children how words function in the English language. Nouns, verbs, adverbs, adjectives, pronouns, and conjunctions are taught at the best opportunities. For instance, when the phoneme /hw/ is introduced, children learn to recognize and spell interrogative words such as when, why, and where. They are taught the difference between a question and a statement and to form a question mark as they practice writing their own questions. All these activities support reading while simultaneously enhancing writing.</li> <li>• Written Expression – All levels of the Superkids Reading Program provide explicit, systematic writing instruction appropriate for children’s developmental stage. In kindergarten, children are instructed through shared writing activities in which the teacher models how to write and asks children to contribute ideas. Children also produce their own writing products by writing letters and words they know and using temporary spelling or having a teacher write other words for them. In first grade, students are taught how to write a variety of products—such as lists, labeled diagrams, sentences about topics, and stories—and they do more and more of the writing independently as the school year progress. First graders are also introduced to the writing process, using it to produce several published pieces. In second grade, children are taught in greater depth about different types of writing products and they use the writing process in each unit to produce these published pieces: an autobiography, poem, friendly letter, book review, personal story, imagined story, research report, and a magazine. Writing instruction in all levels includes modeling of skills and products, think-alouds to show how good writers think as they write, and one-on-one conferencing with students about their writing assignments.</li> <li>• Readiness Skills – Happily Ever After focuses on the skills research has shown are essential building blocks for reading and writing: speaking and listening; print and book awareness; phonological awareness; letter recognition; and listening to books read aloud. Plus, Happily Ever</li> </ul>

	After helps children develop the fine motor skills they will need to write and gives them practice in following directions. These skills are all reinforced in the Superkids Reading Program, particularly in the kindergarten levels. The Latest Brain Research                      Until the 1990s, theories about cognitive processes involved in reading were derived mainly from observations and behavioral measurements. In the 1990s, this changed when researchers were able to identify differences between the brain activation patterns of struggling and non-struggling readers. In one recent study (B. Shaywitz et al., 2004), researchers designed an experiment in which a group of struggling readers used an intensive intervention with systematic phonological awareness training and explicit instruction in sound-symbol correspondences. What they found was remarkable: intensive phonics instruction altered the neural systems of the brain. The implications of this study are extraordinary. Phonics-based programs, such as the Superkids Reading Program, can help struggling readers read better by altering the way their brains store and retrieve information on the neurological level.

"The purpose of this part is to help ensure that limited English proficient children master English and meet the same rigorous standards for academic achievement as all children are expected to meet ...by... developing language skills and multicultural understanding...."	Superkids Reading Program is comprehensive and provides research-based core instruction and specific opportunities to meet the needs of all learners (including English Learners) by adhering to three principles of differentiated instruction: Principle 1: Identify the children’s needs through formal and informal assessment.                      The program offers formative and summative assessments so teachers can answer: What does the child need? What should I teach? Formal assessments in the Assessment Books include Placement Tests (or a Beginning-of-the Year Test), Progress Tests, and End-of-Level Tests. Teachers can informally assess students using Daily Routines, daily skill work in Student Books and Word Work Books, optional blackline master activities, expressive writing assignments, discussion of comprehension questions during guided reading, and other classroom discussions. Principle 2: Deliver core instruction using research-based materials.                      The Superkids Reading Program meets the criteria for effective, research-based core reading instruction delivered to all students during a 60- to 90-minute reading block for K-1st grade and a 120-minute reading block in 2nd grade. Core, grade-level instruction is delivered systematically to the whole class to ensure that all students have the necessary sequence of skill instruction over the K-2 development span in phonemic awareness, phonics, fluency, vocabulary, reading comprehension, spelling, handwriting, writing, grammar, and mechanics. Similarly, Happily Ever After is used during core instruction for prekindergarten students. Principle 3: Differentiate instruction based on student needs.                      With the Superkids Reading Program, for example, teachers are able to address students’ individual needs every day in small groups or one-on-one. Lessons are structured so that teachers can give struggling students more guidance on their core skill work while allowing other students to work more independently. Ten-Minute Tuck-Ins provide additional teacher-led activities for reteaching, reinforcing, or extending skills taught in a lesson. Teachers use the activities to give targeted instruction to small groups or individuals. Guided reading instruction is done in small, homogenous groups so that teachers are able to customize the instruction to meet the specific needs of children in each group. Superkids Libraries for kindergarten and first grade provide over 100 decodable fiction and nonfiction books at three levels—easy, on-level, and challenging—for additional guided reading or independent practice that matches students’ reading abilities. CDs with recorded readings of core texts and Library Books are available to support struggling readers and help all students develop listening comprehension and fluency skills. Independent Activities enable students to practice core skills on their own using blackline masters and other materials. Some activities make cross-curricular connections to science, social studies, art, and other disciplines. A How to Teach book for each grade explains best practices for teaching the program, including how to differentiate instruction. The Superkids Skill-Building Book offers additional

The Rowland Reading Foundation also offers a range of professional development opportunities for teachers to acquire best practices in differentiated instruction via on-site workshops and coaching days.

LOCAL PLANS.                      "...Each plan ...shall... describe how the eligible entity will promote parental... participation...."	The Superkids Reading Program and Happily Ever After encourage educators to develop strong connections with families. Teachers frequently report children's progress, suggest activities that adults can do at home, and actively involve parents in student learning. Ideas promoted in the programs include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Implement a Parent Orientation at the beginning of the school year to give families an overview of how Happily Ever After or the Superkids Reading Program will help develop their child as a reader. Throughout the school year, host family reading nights in the classroom so children can share with their families what they've been reading and writing.</li> <li>• Use the Take-Home Letters (provided in English and Spanish) to let families know what their child has been learning in the program and suggest activities to do at home to reinforce the skills taught.</li> <li>• Share students' work with their families. Send home completed Student Books or Word Workbook pages, Daily Dictation and Handwriting work, blackline masters, expressive writing assignments, Book Talk Journals (for grade 2 only), spelling tests, Progress and End-of-Level Tests. Retain some materials for at-school conferences, particularly work that shows how a student is struggling, making progress, or excelling.</li> <li>• Encourage At-Home Activities, such as:                         <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Reading aloud to a child. Send read-aloud book suggestions home to help families choose books that connect to concepts and topics students are currently reading or learning about at school.</li> <li>- Independent reading. Allow children to take home Superkids Library Books or other books so they can experience the pleasure of reading on their own or aloud to their family.</li> <li>- Talking about books and ideas. Give families engaging questions and topics to discuss related to what children have been reading or studying.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
